Service Providers from Indian Mobile

Note: If you are carrying a mobile phone from your country, check out the international roaming charges for the various service providers Airtel, Vodafone, Idea etc. The international roaming charges are quite high. Also the post paid mobile phones are not pre-activated for international roaming where as the prepaid ones are for some service providers. Check with your service providers well in advance.

My experience with Airtel is that their outgoing service does not work for Pre-paid. Also, before going to UK I spoke with several customer care representatives and each one came

Help Stop World Hunger without spending a Penny

To provide, using the Internet, staple food to chronically hungry Indians so as to enable them to survive, learn and work. Bhookh.com is the India's first online activism site. It gives Internet users the daily opportunity to quickly make a difference to feed Indians who are dying of hunger. In less than 5 seconds, visitors can click on the "Give Free Food" button and, at no cost to them, send food to the hungry. The staple food is paid for by Bhookh.com sponsors. Times Of India

The Hunger Site

The Hunger Site is the original click-to-donate site created in 1999 that gets sponsorship from advertisers in return for delivering users who will see their advertisements. The Hunger site encourages visitors to click a button on the site, once per day, asserting that each unique click results in a donation "equivalent" to 1.1 cups of food. The Hunger Site is not a charity; it is a for-profit corporation which donates the revenue from its advertising banner to selected charities. Currently, these are Feeding America (formerly America's Second Harvest) and Mercy Corps. Source: Wikipedia
